Merged companies Dispoz-o and Wilkinson Industries announce a new leader

Ft. Calhoun, NE and Fountain Inn, SC (June 24, 2009) Mid Oaks Investments LLC of Buffalo Grove, IL appointed Joseph D. Lancia as their new president and chief executive officer (CEO) of their recent merger, Dispoz-o/ Wilkinson Industries effective June 23, 2009. Lancia was formerly president and CEO of Dispoz-o Products of Fountain Inn, SC.

“Joe comes to us with substantial leadership capabilities and remarkable business expertise, playing a major role in the successful growth of Dispoz-o over the last 6 years,” said Wayne Kocourek, chairman and chief executive officer (CEO) of Mid Oaks Investments. Lancia will be responsible for operating and integrating the two successful businesses.

Prior to joining Dispoz-o, Lancia served as president of Strategic Investments, an international investment banking and financial services firm. Shortly after joining the Dispoz-o team, Lancia hired a range of additional executives. Rather than hiring from within the industry, Lancia hired experts at each level from blue-chip manufacturing backgrounds to bring diversity to Dispoz-o. This successful strategy resulted in significant improvements throughout the Company including expanded margins and productivity improvements.

In April 2009 the Mid Oaks investment firm acquired Dispoz-o Products and merged it with food packaging manufacturer, Wilkinson Industries of Fort Calhoun, NE who has been owned by Mid Oaks since 2004.

Both companies, Dispoz-o and Wilkinson, have long histories of providing innovative, eco-friendly products and have earned reputations of serving their customers well.

“Our ultimate goal for the combined company is to create value for our customers while providing a broader product selection that is driven by innovation and sustainability, and to create ease of ordering from just one manufacturer,” said Lancia.
